Innovative Teaching Methods:

PPT / ICT Lectures

With the introduction of ICT in education, classroom learning is one attribute that makes learning experiential and experimental to students. Students can listen to the instructor or teacher, receive visual clues through PowerPoint images, handouts or whiteboard lists and participate actively. This helps in immediate interaction and students have opportunities to ask questions and participate in live discussions.

Participative Teaching Methods :

Group Discussion Method

During Group Discussion teachers can show important of topic by asking questions and align the thoughts of students into the topic. Asking students questions also helps students to prepare well before the group discussion process. Group Discussion can encourage the students to interact with each other more clearly by asking questions and speaking out opinions. Those students who are not paying attention the group discussions can also be invited to participate actively.

Prof. LalitaMahale is conducting group discussions in Statistics

Presentation/ Seminar:

Seminar is a small group teaching-learning (T-L) session in which the participants discuss under the guidance of an expert. The instructor, the students, preparation, content, group dynamics, course coherence, and facilities are key factors in seminar learning. The participants preparing the seminar eventually develop competencies like identification of presentable information, its retrieval from the sources of information and organization of the presentable material. Students learn the art of communicating with peers through compact time bound presentation.
